NEWS OF THE LABEL

A committee of labelization marks the revival of the concept

Almost twenty years to the day after the opening of the first Cité des métiers in Paris La Villette, which gave birth to the concept, the labeling committee met on 4 and 5 April 2013, with a busy agenda since this included examining the labeling four new projects and the passage label operation of two structures already labeled.

Based on lessons learned from the Capa-Cities project and more generally the nature of new projects in development from one to two years - including the CDM of Quebec whose record is about to pass in committee - reflection is committed on whether to label the project a little further upstream than what was practiced until now to give them the benefit of the experience of the network by integrating once the feasibility of the project is recognized and their take the decision to make a CDM.

Thus, two new projects that will be launched in Belgium in the next three years are to be labeled, one in Charleroi and the other in Liege, marking the entrance into the network of a new country. Also received the draft label, two projects that were developed quickly to meet the local emergency situations and should lead to an opening, complete or foreshadowing, by the summer, so in the very near horizon. This is the CDM of Tamagã e Sousa, north of Porto, and the CDM of Mayotte. These two projects will benefit from the proximity of a longstanding CDM, the Porto for one and the CDM of Reunion.

In this committee, the City of Grand Beauvais has been awarded the operation as well as the CDM of Pays Gardois. Thus, opening a site with three poles advice Nîmes, the CDM of Pays Gardois attains the status of CDM in its own right, ending a temporary situation that has overcome the difficulties by increasing the mesh territory. For the record, the Cité des métiers du Gard and Nîmes was one of the first French experience to swarm the concept.

These two labellings fueled the debate on the necessary changes in order to better take into account the situation of the less urbanized than those in large cities where the concept began to spread territories.

Finally, the Committee put on record the possibility of delivering the project label to the CDM of Turin who presented an incomplete record in October 2012, when the partnership will be expanded, which has been done as have see the two members of labeling that were mandated to appraise the situation on the ground. The CDM of Turin thus receives the label project with approval of foreshadowing.

With these new labellings, the network now has 35 Cities trades or 39 sites since 3 CDM have more than one site on their territory.

NEWS OF CDM

On April 8, the CDM of Grand Geneva opened its first center associated of Annemasse, in the presence of the following politicians and nearly 120 guests and partners:

The site of Annemasse (French side) - with those of Meyrin Onex (Swiss side) which will be inaugurated soon and the main site of Plainpalais - is thus part of what is now the "CDM of Grand Geneva" first border city in the Network. Thanks to the strong commitment of all partners (municipalities, institutions and associations, etc.), The creation of associated centers will provide benefits to the CDM to a wider audience in the declining in forms adapted to the frame local.

For Gregoire Evéquo, "Metropolitan France-Vaud-Geneva is a territorial reality, a pool of living and working that extends well beyond the township and the Franco-Swiss border. In this context, the creation of the center of Annemasse clearly reflects a political and strategic choice that can provide appropriate responses to cross-border issues in the areas of training and employment.

"To achieve these objectives, the site of Annemasse has already established a wide range of activities, several methods of consulting, Zooms and workshops - organized in collaboration with various partners - around five main themes of the network: orientation, training, employment, career development and entrepreneurship. Let's not forget specially developed for the public of the border area and especially devoted to training and development in Switzerland and France, including the site: www.laciteenligne.org
